

Nutrition on the go...

...Intravenously!

You're on the move, things to do, people to see, places to go. One hand on the wheel, one hand on the cell phone, right? You don't have time in your busy schedule to drink something nutritious. But that's okay, because you're getting whole days worth of vegetable nutrition in one pint of IV8, the world's first intravenous vegetable juice. Insert the needle in one of eight great locations (it will only pinch a little) and you're on your way. And unlike regular beverages, there's no chance of a messy spill, and no need for cupholders!
